

MNTR

MNTR, a three-piece alternative rock band from Lille, France, already praised by the BBC Introducing team as being 'One to watch', are described as a collection of dark rock riffs twisting into a flux of emotional progressive electro and escalating choruses. Channeling bombastic influences from bands such as Muse, Nothing But Thieves and Bring Me The Horizon.

MNTR's early output is already pointing towards a skyward trajectory. Following the release of their debut EP, Walls of Sound, the trio have made waves on BBC Radio in the UK and amassed over 15,000 views on YouTube.

MNTR's 2nd EP, Poison, will be exploding onto the scene April 28th with the announcement of tour dates to shortly follow.

Their introductory EP saw the band gain further traction for taking the audience on an immersive mind-bending journey beyond the music via their music videos (Directed by Liam Holland, Billie Eilish tour visuals co-director) with this trademark theme being teased to break new ground as the band take to the stage unveiling their high voltage second EP, Poison.
